Monthly report

Allocated Pension Division

January 2023

Financial markets update

Markets started 2023 on an optimistic note. Equities, bonds and alternatives generally rose. Rates and spreads declined and equity market volatility fell to its lowest level in almost a year. Positive market sentiment was helped by US CPI inflation falling for the sixth month in a row. It also seems to have peaked in other developed countries. Investors are still hoping for an end to the monetary tightening cycle, even if central banks remain cautious. Consumer confidence also improved over the month, as the University of Michigan consumer sentiment index unexpectedly rose to the highest level since April 2022.

Over January, Hedged Developed Markets Overseas Shares returned 6.2% on receding inflation and falling interest rates. Fundamentals were otherwise unfavorable. The first month of the 2022 Q4 earnings season yielded disappointing results from a number of companies in a quarter that could see its first decrease in earnings since 2020 Q3. Analysts still expect low single digit positive earnings growth for 2023 as a whole.

Emerging markets outperformed unhedged Overseas Shares over the month, posting a 3.8% gain for the month of January as they were buoyed risk-on environment. The ongoing reopening of the Chinese economy and better than expected Q4 GDP growth benefitted the index, meanwhile India and Brazil detracted.

Hedged Overseas Government Bonds returned 2.0% over the month. Ten-year yields in developed countries fell by 20-30 basis points over the month which led to positive returns for defensive fixed income. Falling credit spreads, especially for high yield, were an additional return boost for credit. Inflation expectations in the US, as measured by the 10-year break-even rate, fell to 2.2%.

Australian shares returned 6.3% and again outperformed their overseas counterparts in January, adding to the strong outperformance of the ASX300 over the last twelve months, whilst Australian bonds also produced positive returns with bond yields ending the month lower.
